

RECAP for CLASS on 2/21/10

Dear Sisters,

Last Sunday we had a wonderful class in which Sherri Macomber shared the testimonies of her life and what has led up to the class which she will teach this coming week. She expressed that it is hard for her to open up her life to others and this has been an exercise of trust that has not been easy. For this reason, I will not share her experiences in depth but only some of the points she made.

Her life has had a series of struggles that have taught her along the way and made her stronger in the process. From being born shortly after her parents divorced and being raised by grandparents for the first years of her life, to then growing up in a blended family, to being married, having children and then becoming widowed at a young age, remarrying with new challenges and being blessed with another child have all given her lessons that have strengthened her in the long run. She has dealt with the feeling of abandonment much of her life and many of her testimonies stem from dealing with this.

Intercessory prayer has been vitally important to her from the beginning of her life. She learned that she had been blessed mightily because of the prayers of her grandmother, here on earth and on the other side.

One point she made was that when we pray for others the blessings WILL come. We may not always be able to see the results right away, but God does hear our prayers.

The answers to her prayers are what she plans to share in this week's class. We are looking forward to hearing about what the Lord has done in her life and the lessons we can apply.

A book she mentioned was instrumental in her healing process is called The Healing Power of Prayer by Floyd McClung.

Today, at our early morning prayer time, we were 5 in number! We have grown 150%!! Praise the Lord. Our prayer time was very blessed and God's spirit was present. I'd like to find a time for everyone who desires to be involved. It is such a blessed time!

I am so glad that those who are unable to attend class are reading the recaps and applying the lessons in their lives. We have seen so many blessings so far and I know there will be many in the future. Praise the Lord!

Blessings to all of you. I'm looking forward to seeing you all on Sunday, whether in the class or not. :)

Your sister in Christ,

Becky S.
